Construction & Engineering Seminar 8th March 2018

16 April 2025 1 min read

Like most other industries in the world and in South Africa, the construction sector is increasingly taking strain. With new changes in standard templates, increasingly frustrating regulatory requirements, technological developments and a challenging market, the business of making profit out of a construction project is becoming more and more challenging.

Join us for a seminar which gives you better insights into:

- The new FIDIC Red, Yellow and Silver Books
- NEC4
- Strategies for managing site health and safety in the current regulatory environment.
